

IQ Application Rationalization

IQ's Application Rationalization tool helps you seamlessly align your mission objectives with your application portfolio, empowering your team to optimize the health of your portfolio, maximize ROI, improve technical and business fitness and map application investments to overall business strategy. With IQ's Application Rationalization tool, your team can make informed decisions and respond with confidence to rapid market changes.

Reduce costs and reduce risk with Application Rationalization.

Historically, managing your application portfolio has been no easy process. Today's tools claim to deliver application portfolio management (APM) capabilities, but in reality provide something closer to application inventory. What's more, many current tools do not support application fitness assessment, what-if analysis and other key decision-making capabilities which are essential to managing your application portfolio. APM tools differ significantly, so how do you know what your enterprise needs?

APM doesn't have to be complicated. At InQuisient, we help you gain visibility into your existing applications so you can easily monitor value in real time and manage priorities accordingly. From initial data capture through decision support, our Application Rationalization tool enables you to assess your application portfolio and identify opportunities accordingly. As a result, you experience a more impactful, scalable application landscape built to drive your bottom line today and moving forward.

Discover the Benefits of IQ Application Rationalization

IQ Application Rationalization is an industry leading APM tool that helps enterprises capture, maintain and analyze application data to make smarter strategic decisions. Find out what you can do with a smarter Application Rationalization tool.
